The federal money usually is sent to the state treasurer by the fifteenth of the month, but State Treasurer Don H. Ebrigh said he had not received the check as yet.

'Omaha' To Leave Port Of Villefranche To Aid Citizens

LERIDA, Jan. 23—Spanish insurgent troops are approaching Martorell, only eight miles from Barcelona.

BARCELONA, Jan. 23—The thirty-odd American residents of war-ravaged Catalonia were ordered to prepare for immediate evacuation today as insurgent guns thundered in the hills only 15 miles from Barcelona.

As big Italian and German bombing planes visited Barcelona again and again on missions of death while the women and old men of this beleaguered city bent all their efforts toward construction of "last ditch" defenses, United States Consul-General Douglas Flood issued the evacuation order.

Destroyer Called
At the same time, Walter D. Thurston, United States charge d'affaires, sent a radio to the United States destroyer Omaha, now at Villefranche, France, instructing its master to proceed immediately to the port of Caldeas, 20 miles north of Barcelona, to embark American refugees.

With drastic martial law in effect, the task of transforming Barcelona from a city of luxury and beauty into a military stronghold commenced at daybreak.

Men too old for military service and ex-soldiers invalided out of the field cooperated with women volunteers between the ages of 18 and 40 in digging trenches and throwing up breastworks.

All commercial activities except those directly concerned with war industries came to an absolute standstill. The only stores open were food shops and drug stores, but restaurants continued in operation to feed the hungry.

Women Act As Police

Women dressed in hastily-acquired green uniforms took over police work to release all able-bodied men for more difficult tasks. All parties and trade unions cooperated in issuance of a manifesto promising united resistance to the "Fascist invaders."

Martial law, with extremely drastic provisions, was declared for all government territory after an all-night meeting of Premier Juan Negrin's council, and women as well as men were rallied to bolster the "iron ring" encircling Barcelona.

"The Kid" Expects Tour To End Marital Trouble

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23—Still in love and still broke, Jackie Coogan is depending on a personal appearance through the South to bring about a reconciliation with his film star wife, Betty Grable.

The kid is not mad at Betty for her statement about his buying a new car from the proceeds of selling "her furniture."

"I'm predicting that Betty and I will be back together again," he said, "when I return from my 12 weeks tour."

"Sure I bought a new car," he admitted, "but I turned in my old one for the down payment and now I've got to meet an installment every month just like anybody else. I bought that car because I needed it to travel on my tour."

According to Jackie, he'll have money in the bank when he returns, and that's the only thing required for him and his blonde wife of little more than a year to set up house-keeping again.

"Betty's not to blame," he said. "I just couldn't take it—the idea of living off my wife's money."

The kid will do comedy patter and will dance in his act, which opens Jan. 31 in El Paso. There will be no references, he said, to his money troubles with his family or to his recent separation from his young wife.

German Crisis Rumors Cause Mart Reaction

LONDON, Jan. 23—Confidential advices concerning alleged internal discontent in Germany reached diplomatic circles in London today, arousing fears that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler may be compelled to abandon his intended orderly program of expansion in favor of some desperate outside coup.

The rumors had repercussions throughout Europe. Virtually all stock markets were weak. German bonds slid from two to five points on various exchanges.

Reports of unrest and troop movements in Austria were denied in Berlin.

Some inkling of the ominous advices received in Whitehall trickled down to the financial district, accounting for the attack of market nerves which caused heavy losses in all international issues.

There was considerable continental selling on all sections of the London board. Even the British war loan dropped 5/8 of a point. The Paris and Amsterdam bourses were extremely weak and the pessimism apparently was shared throughout Europe.

The reports of German difficulties reaching London admittedly came by circuitous routes. One coming by way of Holland coincided with another emanating from Paris and stated there was increasing evidence the Fuehrer is meeting with considerable opposition from the army and leading businessmen.

Popular discontent in addition is more acute than heretofore, it was said. The Fuehrer's summary dismissal of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht and seizure of the Reichsbank, placing German's finance and economics directly under Nazi party control, was held partially responsible.

The military discontent apparently sprang from Hitler's week-end decrees vastly strengthening the power and prestige his brownshirt army at the expense of the regular Reichswehr, whose veterans and retired officers were placed on the same footing as ordinary soldiers.

This elimination of treasured "officer class" distinctions within the ranks of the German army was said to have aroused keen resentment.

In view of the prevailing situation, the advices received here hinted that Hitler may shortly be faced by the alternative of an internal eruption or an external adventure to bolster his allegedly failing prestige.

DUTCH STEAMER, LEAKING BADLY, OUT OF DANGER

CHATHAM, Mass., Jan. 23—The Dutch steamer, Parklaan, which had previously reported itself leaking badly was out of danger today, according to a later message intercepted by the Radio Corporation of America.

The Parklaan nevertheless requested ships in the vicinity to "keep an eye" on her. Earlier, in a message relayed by the British steamship Mahseer, she reported she was heading for the Azores to make repairs. She gave her position then as 37.22 north and 50.40 west, approximately 700 miles east of Bermuda.

R. C. A. also reported receiving an S O S from the Danish steamer Svend Pii on the other side of the Atlantic. No further details were immediately available.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—The stock market today suffered its worst break in months, tumbling $1 to as much as $5 a share in a continuation of Saturday's heavy selling.

Liquidation reflected nervousness over Germany's economic affairs, following the ousting of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht as Reichsbank president last week, and the new crisis in the Spanish civil war.

All sections gave way. Westinghouse slumped $5 a share, Dupont and U. S. Gypsum each $4, U. S. Steel and Chrysler each $3.50, Johns-Manville $4.50, and Bethlehem $3.25.

Outside markets also were under heavy pressure. Foreign securities, but heavily in Amsterdam, Paris and London prior to the New York opening. Cotton led commodities downward with a drop of almost 50 cents a bale.

200 EXECUTIVES OF SOVIET LOSE JOBS, FACE TRIAL

MOSCOW, Jan. 23—More than 200 Soviet executives were dismissed or reduced in rank last week as a result of intensification of the campaign to tighten Soviet labor discipline, a Reuters dispatch from Moscow said today.

Scores of executives have been placed on trial for alleged failure to enforce discipline, the message said. Slackness and absence from work were the workers' chief faults.

Ten pilots, engineers and air industry executives were discharged by Vassily Molokov, civil air chief, for lack of punctuality.

The chief of the Far Eastern civil air fleet has been dismissed, and will be tried on the ground that he was absent from his post on Jan. 7 and 8—dates which coincide with the Russian calendar's Christmas, but which few Russians observe—Reuters said.

DOCTOR FACES CHARGE AFTER PATIENT, 15, DIES

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23—Charged with a "prescription error" which resulted in the death of 15 year old Isabelle Fratz, Dr. John Raftery, a Philadelphia physician, and Pearl Borow, 25, a pharmacist, today were at liberty under heavy bail pending action of a coroner's jury.

Isabelle, youngest of five children of an unemployed father, died Saturday night after taking a dose of the medicine, detectives testified. She died five minutes after taking the medicine.

At a hearing in police court, Dr. Raftery purportedly admitted prescribing 20 grains of a stimulant instead of one-half grain.

Miss Borow said she considered the prescription unusually strong, but made no effort to check with Dr. Raftery because of his reputation and 30 years' medical experience.

Temperature Skids To 12 In Circleville; Wind Accompanies Drop

By International News Service
Quick relief was promised today from the severe cold that spread with paralyzing suddenness over a large part of the United States east of the Rockies yesterday.

High winds that sometimes reached gale strength carried the cold out of the Mackenzie river basin, storehouse of frigid weather in the Canadian Northwest, across a large section of the country.

Mild weather of last week made the change more pronounced and the sharp drop, catching many unaware, caused considerable suffering. Three deaths in Chicago alone were blamed on exposure and reports from other cities indicated the total to be chalked up to the freezing blasts would be nearer twenty.

Eight persons died when a combination store and flat building in McGregor, Ia., was swept by flames in near zero cold Saturday night. It was reported that an overheated stove had started the blaze. Three more were killed in Green Bay, Wis., when an oil heater was reported to have exploded.

Wind Change Aids

Forecaster C. A. Donnel in Chicago said a switch in the wind to the Southwest would bring rising temperatures to the Central states today and that the warmer weather would overcome the cold in the East by tomorrow.

The cold reached the Central states late Saturday and sent the mercury into a dizzy plunge of nearly forty degrees. Overnight it raged eastward as 50 to 60 mile an hour blizzards battered sections of Ohio, Pennsylvania and western New York state.

Park Falls, Wis., turned out to be the country's coldest spot, with a six degree below zero reading. Freezing temperatures were recorded as far south as Texas.

Mercury at 12 in Circleville

Circleville and Pickaway county received a severe fanning Saturday night and Sunday preceding a drop in temperature to 12 degrees.

No serious damage from the winds was reported. In many districts of the county the fodder shocks that withstood previous windstorms were upset and fodder piled against fences.

Highways were clear of snow and ice. No auto accidents were reported to the police or sheriff's departments.

The lowest temperature Saturday night was 25 degrees. Sunday's highest was 30. Fair, cold weather was forecast for Monday with snow or rain scheduled for Tuesday.

TRUSTEES MEET TUESDAY TO PICK 1939 OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the county association of township clerks and trustees will be held Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the Common Pleas courtroom.

John W. Tucker, of Pataskala, vice president of the state association, will be the principal speaker. Election of officers for 1939 will be conducted. Officers for 1938 were J. M. Hatfield, clerk in Monroe township, president; Richard Hedges, trustee in Harrison township, vice president, and Harry Lane, Circleville, clerk of Circleville township, secretary-treasurer.

Trustees, clerks, commissioners, the surveyor and all other county officers are invited to attend the meeting.

Search Abandoned

Search for the three missing was abandoned late last night by coast guard cutters concentrated in the Atlantic where the helpless Cavalier, its four engines crippled by ice, sank and crashed within 10 minutes while only about 300 miles out to sea on a regular flight to Bermuda.

Latest radio advices from Capt. Frank Spurr of the Baytown indicated the survivors had weathered their ordeal well, according to Pan American Airways, which operated the clipper. Police cars and motorcycles will rush them to a hospital when the Baytown drops anchor. Originally scheduled to reach New York last night, the Baytown was delayed by adverse winds which greatly reduced its speed.

Five women, two of whom had watched their husbands sink from sight, and five men comprised the survivors. Four were crew members and six passengers.

The survivors were: passengers—Mrs. Donald Miller, Lincoln, Neb.; Charles M. Talbot, Brookline, Mass.; Miss Nellie Tucker Smith, Pembroke, Bermuda; Mrs. J. Gordon Noakes, Malba, N. Y.; Mrs. Edna Watson, Bermuda, and Mrs. George Ingham, Hamilton, Bermuda.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel in Chicago said a switch in the wind to the Southwest would bring rising temperatures to the Central states today and that the warmer weather would overcome the cold in the East by tomorrow.

The cold reached the Central states late Saturday and sent the mercury into a dizzy plunge of nearly forty degrees. Overnight it raged eastward as 50 to 60 mile an hour blizzards battered sections of Ohio, Pennsylvania and western New York state.

Park Falls, Wis., turned out to be the country's coldest spot, with a six degree below zero reading. Freezing temperatures were recorded as far south as Texas.

Mercury at 12 in Circleville

Circleville and Pickaway county suffered a severe fanning Saturday night and Sunday preceding a drop in temperature to 12 degrees.

No serious damage from the wind was reported. In many districts of the county the fodder shocks that withstood previous windstorms were upset and fodder piled against fences.

Highways were clear of snow and ice. No auto accidents were reported to the police or sheriff's departments.

There appears to be no danger, however, that Barcelona might be taken at least a week, and foreign reports that the government is contemplating moving the capital again were denied. In spite of the numerous air raids, morale in Barcelona remains high.

Under the martial law decree, the administration of justice has been taken over by the army. All meetings, including even gatherings for cinema or theatrical showings were banned. Until this time, government has been under a "state of alarm," a modified form of martial law.

The martyrdom of Barcelona brought with it the death and suffering of at least 20 air raids over the week-end. The dead must number well over 30.

Creation of an "air blockade" to keep food and other supplies away from the Catalan metropolis is the obvious aim of the insurgent air forces, as most of the attacks are directed at the port area.

A direct hit was scored on the British steamer African Mariner, which arrived four days ago with a cargo of wheat, and four of her Greek seamen were killed. The British steamer Yorkbrook is sinking, and Saturday and Sunday the Seabrook and Spray and the Dover Abbey were damaged by insurgent bombs.

Dramatic dog-fights accompanied the raids, as the government's pursuit craft are quick to take the air as soon as the Italo-German air armadas show up from the Balearic island aerodromes.

Five Shot Down

In spite of the personal dangers involved, the populace of Barcelona invariably turns out to watch the sky struggles, and cheers rang through the streets when three Junkers and two Messerschmidt planes, all German-made, were shot down over the city.

Thousands of women and girls, clad in overalls, streamed out of factories, offices, and stores, "armed" with picks and shovels in answer to the call for more aid in the construction of trenches for Barcelona's defenses.

For this crucial week, all industry and business in Barcelona has been ordered suspended, save those activities necessary to arm and feed the warriors and the civil populace.

The decree issued by the Catalan parliament's economic council said: "all able-bodied men under the age of 55 years, and women volunteers between the ages of 16 and 40, are to be placed at the disposal of military authorities, together at places to be assigned to them."

OFFICIAL CITES SALARY BOOSTS FOR DAVEY MEN

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Hundreds of state highway department employees received pay hikes during the last days of the Davey administration, State Highway Director Robert Beightler revealed today.

"The salary increases were unwarranted," Beightler said, "and I am doing all I can to place those salaries back on a normal basis."

Beightler announced that 26 employees of the highway department testing laboratory in Columbus had been temporarily laid off but will be restored to their positions in the Spring when construction is resumed.

About 15 employees in the office of the clerk of sales have been removed temporarily, Beightler said.

LIMIT ON BANK INSURANCE MAY GO TO $10,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The limit of federal bank deposit insurance may be raised from $5,000 to $10,000 or more in the present session of congress, Chairman Steagall (D) of Alabama, of the house banking committee, indicated today.

A survey of operations of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, Steagall said, reveals that the extension can be made without endangering its resources or requiring extra assessments on banks.

"I have always favored a greater amount of deposits being brought within the insurance provisions," said Steagall. "I have been waiting until we were prepared to raise the limit and it looks as if the time has about arrived."

"The corporation thus far has paid losses out of earnings, and thus has not used the assessments paid in by the banks. The limit could be raised without endangering its resources."

Advocates of great insurance say that definite advantages would follow, even though only a small percentage of depositors would be affected. The present $5,000 limit covers the vast majority of depositors. The increase to $10,000, Steagall said, would allow a little greater freedom for depositors in placing their funds. This, he added, would be a convenience.

They broke into a railroad camp car at "Va" station, Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver said Monday, and stole jackets, blankets, a comfort and trousers. Weaver said that state patrolmen had reported identification almost certain. All the fugitives are southerners.

ATTEMPT MADE TO OUST COUNT AGAINST HINES

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—A charge motion to reduce the charges hung fire as District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey prepared to bring Tammany Leader James J. ("Jimmy") Hines to trial today, for the second time, on the charge of having acted as the political "fixer" for the "Dutch" Schultz mob in the operation of a $20,000,000 a year policy racket.

Counsel for Hines has petitioned Judge Charles C. Rott, Jr., who will preside at the trial, to dismiss the strongest count in the indictment—the conspiracy count—on the ground that it has been nullified by the two-year statute of limitations.

Dewey countered by presenting a twenty-page brief declaring that the present indictment "is foolproof against any contention that the conspiracy count is outlawed." Judge Rott has been studying the arguments of both sides during the week-end.

Even if the defense motion to strike out the conspiracy count is granted, Hines still faces trial on 12 substantive felony counts. Hines, if convicted, could be given a maximum penalty of 24 years in prison on these counts.

SEARCH ABANDONED FOR THREE LOST AFTER FLYING BOAT FALLS

officer, and David Williams, steward.

The missing were Donald Miller, husband of Mrs. Miller; J. Gordon Noakes, husband of Mrs. Noakes, and Robert Spence, stewards.

Captain Serious

Capt. Alderson was reported in the most serious condition from exposure and shock but was expected to recover.

Some of the others were believed to have suffered bruises and cuts when the 19-ton flying boat struck the water with terrific force at 1:12 p. m. Saturday. Its passengers had no time to adjust their life belts as the ocean poured into the shattered wreckage and sent it quickly to the bottom.

First inking the Cavalier was in trouble came at 12:33 p. m. New York time Saturday when it reported by radio it was running into "bad weather" and might be forced to land. At 12:57 it dispatched its "SOS". Two minutes later it reported all engines failing because of ice at an altitude of 1,500 feet and a forced landing imminent. At 1:07 the heroic crew reported it was landing with the ignition switch cut and a minute later it was sinking.

The two-score words which gave a terse account of the first tragedy of its kind in the North Atlantic sent a great concentration of rescue ships to the aid of the victims.

Capt. Spurr of the Standard Oil tanker, himself the descendant of an old Nova Scotia seafaring family, reported the rescue to his superiors in clipped phrases by radio:

"While proceeding to one of the positions given, by radio of the lost plane at 10:30 p. m., voices of survivors were heard calling. No. 1 lifeboat, in charge of Chief Officer Olaf Anderson, found survivors floating in rubber life belts and took them into lifeboats bringing them alongside where they were safely taken on board. All survivors are able to travel by motorcar. Five men and five women require overcoats, shoes and trousers for temporary transfer."

After this each survivor was permitted to send a one-word message—"safe"—to anxious families and the radio was then closed for all except official business.

Boat Not Halfway

When the $200,000 flying boat fell it had covered less than half the distance to Bermuda. Its message sent ships and airplanes to the rescue but they sped into heavy weather that forced many to turn back.

Daylight had long since turned into darkness when the Baytown first arrived near the floating survivors. The tanker cast its huge searchlight over the ocean but was unable to locate the bobbing survivors. They screamed and yelled in unison but their shouts failed to reach lookouts on the ship above the roar of the wind and the crash of the waves.

And as the Baytown and its lights faded into the distance, the hopes of the 10 hapless victims sank into deep despair.

Not until an hour later did the Baytown return and then two men among the crowd of 10 abandoned their hold on the lifebelts and swam towards the tanker, screaming in a final desperate attempt to make themselves heard. They were successful. A lifeboat was lowered in the heavy seas but it was after 11 p. m. when it reached the survivors.

As the rescue operations were completed, the coast guard cutter Champlain, in command of Capt.

Raymond T. McElligott, arrived on the scene and stood by. The Baytown sent out a call for a physician. The U. S. S. Erie, with a full medical complement, was drawing near but meanwhile Lieut. Phil Short and a pharmacist's mate, completed the hazardous task of boarding the tanker in mid-ocean. First aid was administered to the 10 victims.

So exhausted were the survivors by their ordeal they could give only vague and incoherent accounts of what had transpired. Later, as they grew calmer, all said they were certain they had seen the three missing men gradually let go of their life preservers and sink from sight.

From Capt. McElligott's conversations with the survivors, it was evident they made a quick grab for the rubber seats and backrests of the plane chairs which are inflated and also serve as life preservers in emergencies. The plane "opened and sank" when it struck the water, he said.

Noakes First

Noakes apparently was the first to sink from sight. Ironically enough, he had flown more than 100,000 miles without mishap, and this was his wife's first air voyage.

Mrs. Noakes, admirably calm despite the tragedy which engulfed her, told officers on the Champlain she believed her husband had suffered a head injury when the ship fell. He had little strength left. As they tossed about on the ocean there, least of all certain that their "S O S" call was heard or that their chance of one in thousands to be saved would be successful, she shouted words of encouragement to him.

"I tried to swim out to him," she told an officer of the Champlain. "Then he let go. I never saw him again."

Miller, also lost although his wife was saved, had planned to take an earlier ship to Bermuda. He postponed the trip Saturday because of bad weather.

Spence, the steward, was also believed to have been badly injured when the ship crashed.

Talbot, a Harvard business student, amazed rescuers with his hardihood. With a broken arm in a plaster cast, he managed to cling to his life preserver through the 10 tortuous hours.

The Pan American flying boat, the Bermuda Clipper, which flew the route alternately with the Cavalier, arrived on schedule at 2:55 p. m. yesterday afternoon at Port Washington. Aboard were 10 passengers including Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson, wife of the first officer of the Cavalier, and Mrs. Elsie Chapman, wife of the radio officer. Enroute here the Bermuda clipper circled the site of the Cavalier tragedy several times but found no signs of life.

VOTE ON F. D.'S CABINET CHOICE SEEN BY NIGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 — Re-lying on debate limitation, senate administration leaders today hoped to end the bi-partisan attack on the relief policies of former W. P. A. Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, and obtain confirmation of his appointment as secretary of commerce.

Administration Democrats, surprised by the bitter tone of most of the debate, lined up some of their best orators to reply to Republicans and anti-administration Democrats assailing Hopkins' appointment.

The counter attack will be led by Senator Barkley (D) Kentucky, senate majority leader. He will be assisted by Senators Wagner, and Mead, Democrats, New York, and Neely (D) West Virginia.

Despite the lengthy and sharp attack on the appointment of Hopkins, Barkley, and Republican leaders as well, predict his nomination will be approved by a big majority.

Senator McNary (R) Oregon, senate minority leader, and Barkley, came to a quick agreement on the latter's proposal to limit debate to 30 minutes to each senator who wishes to speak. McNary and Barkley predicted a vote by nightfall.

Previous messages direct from Berne, Switzerland, said that merely another 100 policemen had been assigned to the border in the Canton of St. Gall.

ATTEMPT MADE TO OUST COUNT AGAINST HINES

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—A defense motion to reduce the charges hung fire as District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey prepared to bring Tammany Leader James J. ("Jimmy") Hines to trial today, for the second time, on the charge of having acted as the political "fixer" for the "Dutch" Schultz mob in the operation of a $20,000,000 a year policy racket.

Counsel for Hines has petitioned Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., who will preside at the re-trial, to dismiss the strongest count in the indictment—the conspiracy count—on the ground that it has been nullified by the two-year statute of limitations.

Dewey countered by presenting a twenty-page brief declaring that the present indictment "is foolproof against any contention that the conspiracy count is outlawed."

Judge Nott has been studying the arguments of both sides during the week-end.

Even if the defense motion to strike out the conspiracy count is granted, Hines still faces trial on 12 substantive felony counts. Hines, if convicted, could be given a maximum penalty of 24 years in prison on these counts.

F. D. NAMES AMLIE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—President Roosevelt today sent to the senate the nomination of Thomas R. Amlie, former member of the house from Wisconsin, to be a member of the Interstate Commerce commission, succeeding Balthasar H. Meyer, also of Wisconsin, who is retiring because of his advanced age. Amlie, a progressive, was defeated for reelection to the house last November.

Fate of Millions of W. P. A.

W.P.A. WORKERS . . . WILL THEIR RANKS BE SLASHED?

COL. FRANCIS C. HARRINGTON

BREADLINE . . . WILL THESE BE INCREASED?

Will it be relief or W.P.A. for a million Americans? Congress will decide as solons on Capitol Hill debate a planned reduction in the President's proposed $875,000,000 relief program. Col. Francis C. Harrington, W.P.A. administrator, declares W.P.A. would have to begin thinning its ranks immediately if the figure of $725,000,000 voted by the house is approved by the senate. This reduction of $150,000,000 under the appropriation asked by the President represents the difference between "orderly contraction of W.P.A. and violent contraction that would cause want and suffering," Harrington contends; cutting W.P.A. workers from 8,017,035 to 1,930,000 by June.

officer, and David Williams, steward.

The missing were Donald Miller, husband of Mrs. Miller; J. Gordon Noakes, husband of Mrs. Noakes, and Robert Spence, stewards.

Captain Serious

Capt. Alderson was reported in the most serious condition from exposure and shock but was expected to recover.

Some of the others were believed to have suffered bruises and cuts when the 19-ton flying boat struck the water with terrific force at 1:12 p. m. Saturday. Its passengers had no time to adjust their life belts as the ocean poured into the shattered wreckage and sent it quickly to the bottom.

First inking the Cavalier was in trouble came at 12:33 p. m. New York time Saturday when it reported by radio it was running into "bad weather" and might be forced to land. At 12:57 it dispatched its "SOS". Two minutes later it reported all engines failing because of ice at an altitude of 1,500 feet and a forced landing imminent. At 1:07 the heroic crew reported it was landing with the ignition switch out and a minute later it was sinking.

The two-score words which gave a terse account of the first tragedy of its kind in the North Atlantic sent a great concentration of rescue ships to the aid of the victims.

Capt. Spurr of the Standard Oil tanker, himself the descendant of an old Nova Scotia seafaring family, reported the rescue to his superiors in clipped phrases by radio:

"While proceeding to one of the positions given by radio of the lost plane at 10:30 p. m., voices of survivors were heard calling. No. 1 lifeboat, in charge of Chief Officer Olaf Anderson, found survivors floating in rubber life belts and took them into lifeboats bringing them alongside where they were safely taken on board. All survivors are able to travel by motorcar. Five men and five women require overcoats, shoes and trousers for temporary transfer."

After this each survivor was permitted to send a one-word message—"safe"—to anxious families and the radio was then closed for all except official business.

Boat Not Halfway

When the $200,000 flying boat fell it had covered less than half the distance to Bermuda. Its message sent ships and airplanes to the rescue but they sped into heavy weather that forced many to turn back.

Daylight had long since turned into darkness when the Baytown first arrived near the floating survivors. The tanker cast its huge searchlight over the ocean but was unable to locate the bobbing survivors. They screamed and yelled in unison but their shouts failed to reach lookouts on the ship above the roar of the wind and the crash of the waves.

And as the Baytown and its lights faded into the distance, the hopes of the 10 hapless victims sank into deep despair.

Not until an hour later did the Baytown return and then two men among the crowd of 10 abandoned their hold on the lifebelts and swam towards the tanker, screaming in a final desperate attempt to make themselves heard. They were successful. A lifeboat was lowered in the heavy seas but it was after 11 p. m. when it reached the survivors.

As the rescue operations were completed, the coast guard cutter Champlain, in command of Capt.

Raymond T. McElligott, arrived on the scene and stood by. The Baytown sent out a call for a physician. The U. S. S. Erie, with a full medical compliment, was drawing near but meanwhile Lieut. Phil Short and a pharmacist's mate, completed the hazardous task of boarding the tanker in mid-ocean. First aid was administered to the 10 victims.

So exhausted were the survivors by their ordeal they could give only vague and incoherent accounts of what had transpired. Later, as they grew calmer, all said they were certain they had seen the three missing men gradually let go of their life preservers and sink from sight.

From Capt. McElligott's conversations with the survivors, it was evident they made a quick grab for the rubber seats and backrests of the plane chairs which are inflated and also serve as life preservers in emergencies. The plane "opened and sank" when it struck the water, he said.

Noakes First

Noakes apparently was the first to sink from sight. Ironically enough, he had flown more than 100,000 miles without mishap, and this was his wife's first air voyage.

Mrs. Noakes, admirably calm despite the tragedy which engulfed her, told officers on the Champlain she believed her husband had suffered a head injury when the ship fell. He had little strength left. As they tossed about on the ocean there, at least of all certain that their "S O S" call was heard or that their chance of one in thousands to be saved would be successful, she shouted words of encouragement to him.

"I tried to swim out to him," she told an officer of the Champlain. "Then he let go. I never saw him again."

Miller, also lost although his wife was saved, had planned to take an earlier ship to Bermuda. He postponed the trip Saturday because of bad weather.

Spence, the steward, was also believed to have been badly injured when the ship crashed.

Talbot, a Harvard business student, amazed rescuers with his hardihood. With a broken arm in a plaster cast, he managed to cling to his life preserver through the 10 tortuous hours.

The Pan American flying boat, the Bermuda Clipper, which flew the route alternately with the Cavalier, arrived on schedule at 2:55 p. m. yesterday afternoon at Port Washington. Aboard were 10 passengers including Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson, wife of the first officer of the Cavalier, and Mrs. Elsie Chapman, wife of the radio officer. Enroute here the Bermuda clipper circled the site of the Cavalier tragedy several times but found no signs of life.

ENGLAND'S KING, QUEEN GUARDED AFTER TROUBLE

LONDON, Jan. 23—Protective measures for King George and Queen Elizabeth were tightened up today as the result of last week's series of bombings, which were attributed by police to Irish Republican zealots.

Extra police were put into service at Sandringham, where the royal couple spent the week-end. A strong guard was stationed at Admiralty Arch, the immense gateway between Trafalgar square and Buckingham palace, and 1,000 reserves were held in readiness in nearby Scotland Yard, following a warning that an attempt—which did not come off—would be made to blow up the arch Sunday night.

EDDIE SCHROEDER WINS WINTER OLYMPIC TEST

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., Jan. 23—Forced to break his own American record, Eddie Schroeder today was assured of carrying the shield of the United States into the third Winter Olympic games of his speed skating career. The Chicago veteran snapped back from an indifferent start and skated the 5,000 meters over freshly frozen surface on the Fowler lake course in 8 minutes, 55.9 seconds yesterday.

Averaged with his 9:08.4 of Saturday he topped the other aspirants with a time for the two trials of 9:02.7.

Solons Report Applications

Many Appointments

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Steam was due to be turned on in the legislature this week to get some important measures enacted into law as the house and senate prepared to wind up its first month of work.

First on the legislative bill, of fare was completion of the $5,000-000 poor relief bill. The public welfare committee of the house has scheduled a meeting for this afternoon to go over important sections and round the measure into shape for a vote.

Until the relief bill reaches the house floor for consideration of the 136 members the house will be at a virtual standstill, except for the introduction of new bills.

It was considered possible the measure may be recommended for passage before 7:30 p. m. today when the house holds its first session of the week.

Senate Marks Time

The senate, too, starts work at the same hour, but it also is marking time, waiting for house action on several major bills.

Tomorrow the senate taxation committee planned to consider the liquid fuel tax and cigarette excise tax extender bills which have been passed by the house.

With revenues from both taxes diverted to the school foundation fund, school interests were pressing for an early vote in order that that foundation fund may be credited with some fresh money as soon as the old taxing acts expire on March 1.

Meanwhile, county chairmen were at wits end explaining to job applicants that the patronage pie will be sliced very thin under the administration economy program that is in full swing.

Senators and representatives were having their troubles along those lines also.

One senator said that he ventured outdoors at his home last week to shovel snow and three automobile loads of job seekers drove up to the curb and besieged him for appointments.

Six Calls Received

Another senator said he found six telephone calls waiting for him when he came downstairs for breakfast one morning.

"I've issued orders at my home," this particular solon said, "that job hunters are to be told I'm out of town."

Democratic legislators regarded the job-slashing activities of the new Republican command with a tongue-in-cheek attitude.

Some even went so far as to predict that many of the jobs lost by supporters of the Davey administration will be filled before the year is out.

One legislator was heard to remark that the economy drive and the $3,000,000 cut in the partial appropriations bill which the new legislature effected was merely a smokescreen and that Republicans would be back in fat state jobs as quickly as the party leaders believed it safe to clear the smoke away.

Out of the thirty who took the examination at the County Seat some weeks ago for rural mail carrier working out of the Ashville postoffice on Route One, three names have been certified as eligible to choose one from. They are Russell Perrill, and Mr. Shugart, Madison township, and Guy Leatherwood, a local young man. It is now the privilege and duty of the county "civil service" Democratic Executive Committee to choose one from these three named. "The wires" seem to be standing the strain fairly well as reported at an early hour this morning. If this committee is not able to make a selection, the Supreme court will likely be called to sit in on the case.

R.E.A. has allotted an additional $230,000 for adding 154 miles of power line with 793 customers to the 743 miles already under construction in nine southern Ohio counties.

Out of a total of $10,000,000 of federal funds for the building and maintenance of forest highways in the United States during the fiscal year July 1, 1939 to June 30, 1940, Ohio's apportioned share is $3,929. California and Idaho each will draw in excess of a million dollars.

Dr. John D. Guthrie, Boyce Thompson Institute, reports discovering a process to prevent the sprouting of potatoes and another to cause vigorous sprouting. Sprouting is stopped by treating the potatoes with potassium naphthaleneacetate and started again with a treatment with ethylene chlorhydrin.

In the latest Ohio trials comparing the feed value of hybrid and open-pollinated corn in fattening pigs, hybrids led in one trial and open-pollinated in two. For all three trials, an average of three pounds less of open-pollinated than of hybrid was required to produce 100 pounds of pork.

Advocates of the two-price plans for solving farm problems have lost considerable of their faith in these projects. Administration of plans which involve the payment of one price for farm products consumed by buyers in the United States, and another price for products exported or furnished to relief clients would be difficult.

MAN'S FATAL SHOOTING

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Four Negroes were held for questioning today in connection with the fatal shooting of John Willis, 45 year old negro, who was killed with a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun while searching for his wife.

Although Joseph Butler, 47, was accused by Patrolman Bernard Hettnerhauser of firing the fatal shot, the other three were taken into custody. Butler told police he shot Willis when the latter, armed with a knife, kicked in the rear door of Butler's home.

Willis' wife's clothing and personal papers were found in Butler's home, police said.

POST-DATED CHECKS COST
STATE, BROWN DECLARES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Director John T. Brown of the Ohio department of agriculture today disclosed that the department was hundreds of dollars "in the red" through the acceptance during the last several months of post-dated checks for licenses sold by the department.

"The department's inspectors have made a habit in the past," Mr. Brown said, "of accepting post-dated checks from licensees who sought to avoid prosecution, leaving it up to the department later to attempt collection when the checks matured."

"As a result the state has not only lost considerable money, but has encountered unnecessary expense."

The director announced that in the future, farmers and firms doing business in licenses agricultural supplies and products, must pay inspectors for licenses and other fees in cash, postoffice money orders, certified checks, cashier's checks or express money orders.

"This means that no personal checks will be accepted by the department in the future," Director Brown said.

The director also announced that he is calling in all of the Department of Agriculture automobiles to check their condition and to ascertain for what purposes they have been used in order to eliminate the use of state cars for private purposes.

RELIEF, OTHER BILLS TO FACE ASSEMBLY VOTE

Weekly Meeting Begins At

Awaits Action

Solons Report Applications

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Steam was due to be turned on in the legislature this week to get some important measures enacted into law as the house and senate prepared to wind up its first month of work.

First on the legislative bill of fare was completion of the $5,000,000 poor relief bill. The public welfare committee of the house has scheduled a meeting for this afternoon to go over important sections and round the measure into shape for a vote.

Until the relief bill reaches the house floor for consideration of the 136 members the house will be at a virtual standstill, except for the introduction of new bills.

It was considered possible the measure may be recommended for passage before 7:30 p. m. today when the house holds its first session of the week.

Senate Marks Time

The senate, too, starts work at the same hour, but it also is marking time, waiting for house action on several major bills.

Tomorrow the senate taxation committee planned to consider the liquid fuel tax and cigarette excise tax extender bills which have been passed by the house.

With revenues from both taxes diverted to the school foundation fund, school interests were pressing for an early vote in order that that foundation fund may be credited with some fresh money as soon as the old taxing acts expire on March 1.

Meanwhile, county chairmen were at wits end explaining to job applicants that the patronage pie will be sliced very thin under the administration economy program that is in full swing.

Senators and representatives were having their troubles along those lines also.

One senator said that he ventured outdoors at his home last week to shovel snow and three automobile loads of job seekers drove up to the curb and besieged him for appointments.

Six Calls Received

Another senator said he found six telephone calls waiting for him when he came downstairs for breakfast one morning.

"I've issued orders at my home," this particular senator said, "that job hunters are to be told I'm out of town."

Democratic legislators regarded the job-slashing activities of the new Republican command with a tongue-in-cheek attitude.

Some even went so far as to predict that many of the jobs lost by supporters of the Davey administration will be filled before the year is out.

One legislator was heard to remark that the economy drive and the $3,000,000 cut in the partial appropriations bill which the new legislature effected was merely a smokescreen and that Republicans would be back in fat state jobs as quickly as the party leaders believed it safe to clear the smoke away.

They were survivors of the semi-finals which were held last night in three Columbus churches.

First prize in the contest is $200 and a four-year scholarship in an Ohio college; second prize is $100 and a two-year scholarship while the third award is $50 and a one-year scholarship.

Out of the thirty who took the examination at the County Seat some weeks ago for rural mail carrier working out of the Ashville postoffice on Route One, three names have been certified as eligible to choose one from. They are Russell Perrill, and Mr. Shugart, Madison township, and Guy Leatherwood, a local young man. It is now the privilege and duty of the county "civil service" Democratic Executive Committee to choose one from these three named. "The wires" seem to be standing the strain fairly well as reported at an early hour this morning. If this committee is not able to make a selection, the Supreme court will likely be called to sit on the case.

R.E.A. has allotted an additional $230,000 for adding 154 miles of power line with 793 customers to the 743 miles already under construction in nine southern Ohio counties.

Out of a total of $10,000,000 of federal funds for the building and maintenance of forest highways in the United States during the fiscal year July 1, 1939 to June 30, 1940, Ohio's apportioned share is $3,929. California and Idaho each will draw in excess of a million dollars.

Dr. John D. Guthrie, Boyce Thompson Institute, reports discovering a process to prevent the sprouting of potatoes and another to cause vigorous sprouting. Sprouting is stopped by treating the potatoes with potassium naphthaleneacetate and started again with a treatment with ethylene chlorhydrin.

In the latest Ohio trials comparing the feed value of hybrid and open-pollinated corn in fattening pigs, hybrids led in one trial and open-pollinated in two. For all three trials, an average of three pounds less of open-pollinated than of hybrid was required to produce 100 pounds of pork.

Advocates of the two-price plans for solving farm problems have lost considerable of their faith in these projects. Administration of plans which involve the payment of one price for farm products consumed by buyers in the United States, and another price for products exported or furnished to relief clients would be difficult.

FOUR QUESTIONED IN MAN'S FATAL SHOOTING

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Four Negroes were held for questioning today in connection with the fatal shooting of John Willis, 45 year old negro, who was killed with a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun while searching for his wife.

Although Joseph Butler, 47, was accused by Patrolman Bernard Hettner of firing the fatal shot, the other three were taken into custody. Butler told police he shot Willis when the latter, armed with a knife, kicked in the rear door of Butler's home.

Willis' wife's clothing and personal papers were found in Butler's home, police said.

POST-DATED CHECKS COST STATE, BROWN DECLARES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Director John T. Brown of the Ohio department of agriculture today disclosed that the department was hundreds of dollars "in the red" through the acceptance during the last several months of post-dated checks for licenses sold by the department.

"The department's inspectors have made a habit in the past," Mr. Brown said, "of accepting post-dated checks from licensees who sought to avoid prosecution, leaving it up to the department later to attempt collection when the checks matured."

"As a result the state has not only lost considerable money, but has encountered unnecessary expense."

The director announced that in the future, farmers and firms doing business in licenses agricultural supplies and products, must pay inspectors for licenses and other fees in cash, postoffice money orders, certified checks, cashier's checks or express money orders.

"This means that no personal checks will be accepted by the department in the future," Director Brown said.

The director also announced that he is calling in all of the Department of Agriculture automobiles to check their condition and to ascertain for what purposes they have been used in order to eliminate the use of state cars for private purposes.

AIR OFFENSE
REPORTS said to have been sent to our government by Lindbergh, regarding German air strength, while not officially admitted, seem to agree with information received from other sources. While Americans find it hard to believe that present Nazi air power is so great as represented, it is probably more effective today than any other country's, and growing rapidly. The Nazis are putting everything they have into military preparedness, apparently regarding their air force, with its modern bombing planes, as their chief arm of offense.

All this is alarming in two ways. It means that Germany is now able to strike harder by air than any other country. It also suggests that Germany in this supreme effort is rapidly exhausting her resources and, unless she can bolster her depleted treasury somehow, may feel obliged to strike soon while she is at the height of her air power.

Many observers are expecting war in the spring, which in the beginning might be confined to a drive for annexation of the Ukraine. Eventually such a conflict might spread to many countries.

America is in a far safer position than any of the Old World countries, and there is no need of starting a war scare here. At the same time, American opinion will probably expect and support a considerable expansion of our war power, especially in the air.

CZECHS TO SOUTH AMERICA
IN FEBRUARY, it is announced from Prague, 2,500 Czechs, both Aryans and Jews, will go to Bolivia. They are the first group of 10,000 Czechoslovaks for whom arrangements have been made for immigration to Bolivia, Argentina, Colombia and Venezuela. They are to settle in rural areas and will establish collective farms. Czechoslovakia is providing the necessary financial aid for them. The government hopes soon to make similar provision for German and Austrian refugees now in Czechoslovakia.

The details of this migration are not given. Neither is the percentage of Jewish emigrants in this group. It was clear at the time of the dismemberment and Nazi-fication of Czechoslovakia that there must be many citizens of that country, not Jews, who would find the new regime not merely uncongenial but hostile. That their problem approaches solution so promptly suggests that the good opinion the world had of that country and its people before Munich was well founded.

There is now said to be a radio for every three people in America, but we know three people who have no radio.

BRITISH SPIKING U. S. PLANS

WASHINGTON—While the British have been working so energetically to win American friends and influence U. S. public opinion, behind-the-scenes they have been spiking U. S. plans to span the Atlantic with a regular air service.

Pan American Airways plans are all set for the transatlantic crossing, but the British are holding back and threaten to refuse landing privileges in Newfoundland. Here is the neat British method of delaying the U. S. transatlantic service. Two years ago, Pan American Airways and Imperial Airways signed an agreement giving the British company the right to land in the United States, and the American company the right to land in British territory, including Newfoundland. They were to run two round trips per week from London to New York and the agreement was to last 15 years.

The hitch in the agreement, however, is that the two companies are to start their services simultaneously. Pan American cannot start first. But the British are not ready to start, are too busy building war planes. Dog-in-the-manger, they insist that Pan American shall not start either.

SWITCH TO PARIS

If Pan American Airways does start before Imperial Airways is ready, the British have threatened to declare their 1937 agreement void, thus taking away landing rights for U. S. planes in Newfoundland. Newfoundland is the key to the more northern and shorter route across the Atlantic. Without it, U. S. planes must take the longer route via the Azores, land at Paris instead of London.

This is what Pan American now threatens to do. Indignant over British obstruction, the State Department finally asked the French for landing privileges in Paris. These have now been granted, and transatlantic air service will begin with virtual nose-thumbing of John Bull.

Pan American's planes will be set to start service within a very brief period over the Azores route to France. In retaliation the State Department may deny the British landing privileges in the United States, but apparently this does not worry the British much, since they can land at Montreal, send passengers to New York by local plane or train.

Behind their hands, U. S. officials suggest that Chamberlain try out his appeasement policy on the United States.

Note—The situation will be a lot more complicated when six other companies—French, German, Dutch, Swiss, Italian and Russian—all complete present plans for hopping the Atlantic.

COALITION TICKET

The spectacle of Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, Senator Josiah Bailey, North Carolina Democrat, and Colonel Frank Knox, 1936 GOP vice presidential candidate, lunching together in the Senate restaurant has set Capital tongues awagging. The luncheon gave new life to a report that Vandenberg and Bailey are trying to fan up interest in an anti-New Deal coalition ticket in 1940 with themselves as standard-bearers.

sively of reports, allegations, hints, rumors and miscellaneous uncertainties. Theoretically the joint congressional committees' sessions are executive and secret. My! how secret!
The truth is that these two committees have a combined membership of 40-odd.
The Washington news correspondents have taken that membership of 40-or-more, and wrung 'em dry, member by member, for net results. Maybe no one committee member has told everything. Maybe no one correspondent has squeezed out the whole story.
But, pooling the yield, not much is left to the imagination.

In 1914 things were entirely different.
Personally, in those days, if I do say so myself, I had a fairly clear idea of the dangers of the outlook in Europe. I had lived there, had criss-crossed the old world as a traveler, and had sensed the tenseness of the strain in that hemisphere.
But heavens! When the row

DIET AND HEALTH

Fatigue of the Aged Fought With Tonics

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
PHYSICIANS and nurses who are not used to treating elderly persons often are puzzled by a peculiar state of listlessness, and mental confusion, and fatigue. There is a slight temperature and a soreness of the tongue and a general digestive upset.
This condition is well known to specialists in diseases of old age, geriatrics, and is called senile toxemia. The first symptoms usually complained of are weakness, loss of sleep, loss of appetite and lack of strength. Treatment usually is satisfactory. The diet should be maintained. Whether there is appetite present or not—Bitter tonics containing small amounts of nuxvomica in gentian compound bring about a rapid restoration.

Contradictions
In the general care of the aged we meet with very contradictory advice, especially from old people themselves, who are very liable to ascribe their advanced years to some particular thing that they have been doing all their lives. For instance, William Cullen Bryant said: "I have reached a pretty advanced period of life—78 years and 4 months—without the usual infirmities of old age. How far this is the effect of my way of life is perhaps uncertain. I arise early, at this time of year about half past five. I immediately, with very little encumbrance of clothing, begin a series of exercises for the most part designed to expand the chest. These are performed with dumbbells and pole and a horizontal bar. After a full hour of this, I bathe from head to foot. My food is simple—honey and milk and apples for breakfast. After breakfast I walk to the office of the 'Evening Post', nearly three miles distant, and after three hours walk home. In the country I am engaged in my literary task until a feeling of weariness drives me out into the open air and I go into my garden and prune the trees or perform other work."

This may have been all right for William Cullen Bryant, but it would certainly kill most of the old people I know. The only conclusion we can reach is that William Cullen Bryant must have been pretty husky to begin with.

This From Franklin
We also have some advice from Benjamin Franklin:
"It is recorded of Methusalem, who, being the longest liver, may be supposed to have best preserved his health, that he slept always in the open air; for, when he had lived 500 years an angel said to him, 'Arise, Methusalem, and build thee an house, for thou shalt live yet 500 years longer,' but Methusalem answered and said, 'If I am to live but 500 years longer, it is not worth while to build me an house—I will sleep in the air, as I have been used to do.'"

Certainly Methusalem should be the best authority on the care of old age, but one wonders whether Benjamin Franklin spoke for him or not. This advice is certainly contrary to what we said earlier in the week, that the elderly should be protected against draughts and changes of temperature.

Perhaps one conclusion to the question of the care of the aged is to let them do what they want to do, because they are probably going to do it anyway.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
P. Y.: "Is it true that you can get cancer from tomatoes that were cooked in a galvanized kettle?"
Answer—No. Neither tomatoes nor galvanized kettles cause cancer. Cancer occurs in animals and savages who have never been near tomatoes or galvanized kettles.
H. M.: "Does mineral oil (Russian oil) have any bad effects on the bowels or the stomach, such as ruin of the bowel muscles?"
Answer—No. Mineral oil has no bad effect on any part of the digestive tract. It is soothing rather than irritating and no matter how long it is taken, it does not leave this effect.
H. S.: "Is the continuous use of psyllium seeds likely to cause any harm? I take three teaspoonfuls three times daily."
Answer—There are many instances of psyllium seed becoming impacted in the bowel and causing obstruction. In my opinion psyllium seed is one of the worst of the mild cathartics.

O. T. F.: "I am a woman 50 years old, and have had high blood pressure for about four years. It does not get over 150 to my knowing. The doctor says my heart is all right. Would you kindly give me a menu for a day—breakfast, luncheon and dinner?"
Answer—In general the amount of food eaten is more important in high blood pressure than the kind of food. It is the consensus of opinion that meats should be reduced and emphasis placed on vegetables and fruits. I suggest as a menu: BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, or orange, or bananas, or prunes, or a pear, or an apple (in fact, any fruit); buttered toast or shredded wheat with cream and sugar. LUNCHEON: Cottage cheese; fruit salad; any kind of cake as a dessert; glass of milk. DINNER: Vegetable soup or any cream soup; small helping of meat—fish, fowl, game or red meat; bread and butter; any two vegetables; ice cream and cake; coffee.

DEATH AT THE MANOR
BY M. E. CORNE
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO
"SUPPOSE," said McIntyre, "that we figure it this way: Mr. Horace is in love with Della Craig. He wants to give her the money for her play, but he doesn't have it. So he murders his mother and comes into enough millions to back a hundred shows."
"And murders his wife so that he can marry Della, eh?" I put in sarcastically.
"Exactly."
"Of course," I continued acidly, "there being no divorce laws in the country, he'd have to poison her!"
"Maybe," suggested Phil, "maybe Mrs. Horace refused to divorce him."
"Oh, it's too ridiculous!" I was disgusted with the both of them. "Mr. Horace wouldn't harm a flea. Besides, he isn't in love with Della. He never pays the slightest attention to her."
"An old trick, Elsie. You can't prove a thing by that."
"But you surely can't believe that a woman like Della would fall for an insignificant little runt like Mr. Horace?"
"Not for Horace, perhaps," Mac admitted, "but for his millions."
"Well, I think you are off on the wrong track again. Mr. Horace doesn't even live in this world, let alone commit murders in it!"
"Now, don't fly off the handle, girl," Mac spoke placatingly. "I don't say he is the guilty party. But I do say he had a motive, and very likely an opportunity. He could have secured the cyanide; he probably buys a great many poisons for use in his laboratory."
"Why don't you accuse him to his face then?" I demanded, thoroughly exasperated. "A man could back a play, couldn't he, without expecting payment in return? He may be interested in Della in a fatherly way."
Phil burst into loud guffaws: "My God, Elsie! Act your age! Fatherly way, my eye!"
I withered him with a glance. "You wouldn't understand," I returned coldly. "There are some men in the world with decent instincts."
Mac said wearily: "If you two are going to battle every five minutes, I'm going to turn you out."
"O. K.," Phil grinned. "I'll be gone if you can tame Elsie."
"Imbecile!" I said, and turned my back upon him. "Are you going to inform Chief Ellis of your suspicions?" I asked McIntyre.
"Ellis has troubles of his own," the detective replied, his eyes twinkling. "He's busy whittling the pieces of the puzzle to fit his picture. He'll make an arrest before long; then we'll get to work."
"Here he comes," warned Phil, and the chief came into the room with Jeffrey Todington.
Jeffrey in gray flannels was my idea of what a millionaire should look like. Handsome in a rugged, masculine sort of a way, he certainly was the answer to any maiden's prayer. Gazing at him I could understand why Daphne Witherspoon objected to becoming Count Orsini's bride.
"What do you know about this business?" Ellis addressed him brusquely.
Jeffrey's reply came unhesitatingly: "Not a thing."

"No suspicions?"
"Absolutely none."
"Not a murderer in the crowd, eh?"
Jeffrey's back stiffened. "That's hardly for me to say, Mr. Ellis," he said coldly.
"Perhaps not." The other shrugged. "Look here, Todington," his tone changed, "I'm doing the best I can to solve this case. You and your friends aren't helping me any. You're all withholding important information!"
"Or what you think is important," Jeffrey amended shrewdly. "For a full second Chief Ellis stared at him, and Mac McIntyre took advantage of the opportunity to step in.
"Let's not misunderstand one another, Mr. Todington," he said suavely. "We want to find the person or persons who premeditatedly murdered Mrs. Horace Witherspoon. You want to clear your friends. It all works to the same end, and there is no need to quarrel about it."
Jeffrey's eyes searched the detective's face. Mac met the look blandly. Presently, as though satisfied at what he saw, Jeffrey nodded. "Perhaps you're right," he admitted. "I don't want to quarrel, but it makes my blood boil to have the police suspect my friends. I know them intimately, you see, and you don't."
"Naturally," Mac agreed. "However, the truth never harmed anyone. If I ask you a personal question, will you answer it to the best of your ability?"
"Shoot!"
"Very well. When did Daphne Witherspoon break her engagement to you?"
Jeffrey took a long time to reply, but at last he said: "About a month ago."
"And what reason did she give for breaking it?"
"She—she told me she no longer cared for me."
"Did you believe her?"
"No." He lowered his voice. "I knew that she was doing it for her mother's sake."
"Her mother's sake! Did Mrs. Horace want her daughter to marry the count?"
Jeffrey frowned. "Daphne knew that her grandmother would make her mother's life a hell on earth if she did not marry Orsini. Mrs. Witherspoon was mad about my alty."
"I see. And did you try to persuade Miss Witherspoon to reconsider?"
He laughed shortly. "Naturally I loved her!"
"Of course," Mac got up and began to walk about the room. "I suppose now that the old—that Mrs. Witherspoon is dead, there will be nothing to interfere with your marriage to Miss Daphne?"
"You suppose wrong," Jeffrey said, so forlornly that my heart bled for him. "She refuses to marry me! She refuses to marry anyone!"
"So," Mac registered amazement. "That is odd! What's her reason for this time?"
"She won't give a reason. She acts so queer and stiff I don't know what to make of her!"
"I could guess," muttered Ellis and Jeffrey leaped quickly to his feet.
"I knew you'd get around to that!" he exclaimed furiously. "But Daphne Witherspoon is innocent, I tell you! Innocent!"
"All right!" Ellis raised his hand. "No need to fly off the handle. I'm not saying that she had a hand in the murder, but"—he paused ominously—"but I am saying she knows more than she's admitted to date. And if I were a young man in love with her—"
"Yes, I know," Jeffrey's anger cooled. "She does know something—and I'm afraid!"
"Well, that's all for the present." The chief of police signaled that the interview was at an end. "But remember, I've warned you!"

AIR OFFENSE

REPORTS said to have been sent to our government by Lindbergh, regarding German air strength, while not officially admitted, seem to agree with information received from other sources. While Americans find it hard to believe that present Nazi air power is so great as represented, it is probably more effective today than any other country's, and growing rapidly. The Nazis are putting everything they have into military preparedness, apparently regarding their air force, with its modern bombing planes, as their chief arm of offense.

All this is alarming in two ways. It means that Germany is now able to strike harder by air than any other country. It also suggests that Germany in this supreme effort is rapidly exhausting her resources and, unless she can bolster her depleted treasury somehow, may feel obliged to strike soon while she is at the height of her air power.

Many observers are expecting war in the spring, which in the beginning might be confined to a drive for annexation of the Ukraine. Eventually such a conflict might spread to many countries.

America is in a far safer position than any of the Old World countries, and there is no need of starting a war scare here. At the same time, American opinion will probably expect and support a considerable expansion of our war power, especially in the air.

CZECHS TO SOUTH AMERICA

IN FEBRUARY, it is announced from Prague, 2,500 Czechs, both Aryans and Jews, will go to Bolivia. They are the first group of 10,000 Czechoslovaks for whom arrangements have been made for immigration to Bolivia, Argentina, Colombia and Venezuela. They are to settle in rural areas and will establish collective farms. Czechoslovakia is providing the necessary financial aid for them. The government hopes soon to make similar provision for German and Austrian refugees now in Czechoslovakia.

The details of this migration are not given. Neither is the percentage of Jewish emigrants in this group. It was clear at the time of the dismemberment and Nazi-fication of Czechoslovakia that there must be many citizens of that country, not Jews, who would find the new regime not merely uncongenial but hostile. That their problem approaches solution so promptly suggests that the good opinion the world had of that country and its people before Munich was well founded.

There is now said to be a radio for every three people in America, but we know three people who have no radio.

BRITISH SPIKING U. S. PLANS

WASHINGTON—While the British have been working so energetically to win American friends and influence U. S. public opinion, behind-the-scenes they have been spiking U. S. plans to span the Atlantic with a regular air service.

Pan American Airways plans are all set for the transatlantic crossing, but the British are holding back and threaten to refuse landing privileges in Newfoundland. Here is the neat British method of delaying the U. S. transatlantic service. Two years ago, Pan American Airways and Imperial Airways signed an agreement giving the British company the right to land in the United States, and the American company the right to land in British territory, including Newfoundland. They were to run two round trips per week from London to New York and the agreement was to last 15 years.

The hitch in the agreement, however, is that the two companies are to start their services simultaneously. Pan American cannot start first. But the British are not ready to start, are too busy building war planes. Dog-in-the-manger, they insist that Pan American shall not start either.

SWITCH TO PARIS

If Pan American Airways does start before Imperial Airways is ready, the British have threatened to declare their 1937 agreement void, thus taking away landing rights for U. S. planes in Newfoundland. Newfoundland is the key to the more northern and shorter route across the Atlantic. Without it, U. S. planes must take the longer route via the Azores, land at Paris instead of London.

This is what Pan American now threatens to do. Indignant over British obstruction, the State Department finally asked the French for landing privileges in Paris. These have now been granted, and transatlantic air service will begin with virtual nose-thumbing of John Bull.

Pan American's planes will be set to start service within a very brief period over the Azores route to France. In retaliation the State Department may deny the British landing privileges in the United States, but apparently this does not worry the British much, since they can land at Montreal, send passengers to New York by local plane or train.

Behind their hands, U. S. officials suggest that Chamberlain try out his appeasement policy on the United States.

Note—The situation will be a lot more complicated when six other companies—French, German, Dutch, Swiss, Italian and Russian—all complete present plans for hopping the Atlantic.

COALITION TICKET

The spectacle of Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, Senator Josiah Bailey, North Carolina Democrat, and Colonel Frank Knox, 1936 GOP vice presidential candidate, lunching together in the Senate restaurant has set Capital tongues awagging. The luncheon gave new life to a report that Vandenberg and Bailey are trying to fan up interest in an anti-New Deal coalition ticket in 1940 with themselves as standard-bearers.

DIET AND HEALTH

Fatigue of the Aged Fought With Tonics

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PHYSICIANS and nurses who are not used to treating elderly persons often are puzzled by a peculiar state of listlessness, and mental confusion, and fatigue. There is a slight temperature and a soreness of the tongue and a general digestive upset.

This condition is well known to specialists in diseases of old people, and is called senile toxemia. The first symptoms usually complained of are weakness, loss of sleep, loss of appetite and lack of interest. Treatment usually is satisfactory. The diet should be maintained whether there is appetite present or not. Bitter tonics containing small amounts of nuxvomica in gentian compound bring about a rapid restoration.

Contradictions

In the general care of the aged we meet with very contradictory advice, especially from old people themselves, who are very liable to ascribe their advanced years to some

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

particular thing that they have been doing all their lives. For instance, William Cullen Bryant said:

"I have reached a pretty advanced period of life—73 years and 4 months—without the usual infirmities of old age. How far this is the effect of my way of life is perhaps uncertain. I arise early, at this time of year about half past five. I immediately, with very little encumbrance of clothing, begin a series of exercises for the most part designed to expand the chest. These are performed with dumbbells and pole and a horizontal bar. After a full hour of this, I bathe from head to foot. My food is simple—honey and milk and apples for breakfast. After breakfast I walk to the office of the 'Evening Post', nearly three miles distant, and after three hours walk home. In the country I am engaged in my literary task until a feeling of weariness drives me out into the open air and I go into my garden and prune the trees or perform other work."

This may have been all right for William Cullen Bryant, but it would certainly kill most of the old people I know. The only conclusion we can reach is that William Cullen Bryant must have been pretty husky to begin with.

This From Franklin

We also have some advice from Benjamin Franklin:

"It is recorded of Methusalem, who, being the longest liver, may be supposed to have best preserved his health, that he slept always in the open air; for, when he had lived 500 years an angel said to him, 'Arise, Methusalem, and build thee an house, for thou shalt live yet 500 years longer,' but Methusalem answered and said, 'If I am to live but 500 years longer, it is not worth while to build me an house—I will sleep in the air, as I have been used to do."

Certainly Methusalem should be the last authority on the care of old age, but one wonders whether Benjamin Franklin spoke for him or not. This advice is certainly contrary to what we said earlier in the week, that the elderly should be protected against draughts and changes of temperature.

Perhaps one conclusion to the question of the care of the aged is to let them do what they want to do, because they are probably going to do it anyway.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. Y.: "Is it true that you can get cancer from tomatoes that were cooked in a galvanized kettle?"

Answer—No. Neither tomatoes nor galvanized kettles cause cancer. Cancer occurs in animals and savages who have never been near tomatoes or galvanized kettles.

H. M.: "Does mineral oil (Russian oil) have any bad effects on the bowels or the stomach, such as ruin of the bowel muscles?"

Answer—No. Mineral oil has no bad effect on any part of the digestive tract. It is soothing rather than irritating and no matter how long it is taken, it does not leave this effect. H. S.: "Is the continuous use of psyllium seeds likely to cause any harm? I take three teaspoonfuls three times daily."

Answer—There are many instances of psyllium seed becoming impacted in the bowel and causing obstruction. In my opinion psyllium seed is one of the worst of the mild cathartics.

O. T. F.: "I am a woman 50 years old, and have had high blood pressure for about four years. It does not get over 190 to my knowing. The doctor says my heart is all right. Would you kindly give me a menu for a day—breakfast, luncheon and dinner?"

Answer—In general the amount of food eaten is more important in high blood pressure than the kind of food. It is the consensus of opinion that meats should be reduced and emphasis placed on vegetables and fruits. I suggest as a menu: BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, or orange, or banana or prunes, or a pear, or an apple (in fact, any fruit); buttered toast or shredded wheat with cream and sugar. LUNCHEON: Cottage cheese; fruit salad; any kind of cake as a dessert; glass of milk. DINNER: Vegetable soup or any cream soup; small helping of meat—fish, fowl, game or red meat; bread and butter; any two vegetables; ice cream and cake; coffee.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Female Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

DEATH AT THE MANOR

BY M. E. CORNE

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO
"SUPPOSE," said McIntyre, that we figure it this way:

Mr. Horace is in love with Della Craig. He wants to give her the money for her play, but he doesn't have it. So he murders his mother and comes into enough millions to back a hundred shows."

"And murders his wife so that he can marry Della, eh?" I put in sarcastically.

"Of course," I continued acidly, "there being no divorce laws in the country, he'd have to poison her!" "Maybe," suggested Phil, "maybe Mrs. Horace refused to divorce him."

"Oh, it's too ridiculous!" I was disgusted with the both of them. "Mr. Horace wouldn't harm a flea. Besides, he isn't in love with Della. He never pays the slightest attention to her."

"An old trick, Elsie. You can't prove a thing by that."

"But you surely can't believe that a woman like Della would fall for an insignificant little runt like Mr. Horace?"

"Not for Horace, perhaps," Mac admitted, "but for his millions."

"Well, I think you are off on the wrong track again. Mr. Horace doesn't even live in this world, let alone commit murders in it!"

"Now, don't fly off the handle, girl," Mac spoke placatingly. "I don't say he is the guilty party. But I do say he had a motive, and very likely an opportunity. He could have secured the cyanide; he probably buys a great many poisons for use in his laboratory."

"Why don't you accuse him to his face then?" I demanded, thoroughly exasperated. "A man could back a play, couldn't he, without expecting payment in return? He may be interested in Della in a fatherly way."

Phil burst into loud guffaws: "My God, Elsie! Act your age! Fatherly love, my eye!"

"You wouldn't understand," I returned coldly. "There are some men in the world with decent instincts."

Mac said wearily: "If you two are going to battle every five minutes, I'm going to turn you out."

"O. K.," Phil grinned. "I'll be gone if you can tame Elsie."

"Imbecile!" I said, and turned my back upon him. "Are you going to inform Chief Ellis of your suspicions?" I asked McIntyre.

"Ellis has troubles of his own," the detective replied, his eyes twinkling. "He's busy whitening the pieces of the puzzle to fit his picture. He'll make an arrest before long; then we'll get to work."

"She won't give a reason. She acts so queer and stiff I don't know what to make of her."

How are YOUR resolutions holding out?

By this time, a lot of the resolutions that were so shining bright on New Year's Day are badly bent or broken.

Maybe your resolutions were too lofty to allow for human frailties. We'd like to suggest another resolution that is both easy and profitable to keep.

It's just this: Read the advertisements regularly.

Sounds childishly simple, doesn't it? But it makes sense when you stop to think about it.

You have a certain amount of money to spend for all the things your family needs. It's up to you to get the most out of it. And the advertising pages of this paper can help you.

Here merchants and manufacturers advertise their best values, their lowest prices. They know they can build business only by giving you satisfaction. You know you can depend upon the things they advertise. It works both ways.

Watch for "specials," for seasonal sales, for news of new foods and new conveniences. You'll learn the best time to buy winter coats or bathing suits. You'll learn prices, styles, brands. You'll shop without wasting time or steps. And you'll live a lot more comfortably.

DO YOU KNOW...

That the high quality of our Bread never varies. Tomorrow's and every day's loaf will have the same delicious flavor as today's.

How are YOUR resolutions holding out?

By this time, a lot of the resolutions that were so shining bright on New Year's Day are badly bent or broken.

Maybe your resolutions were too lofty to allow for human frailties. We'd like to suggest another resolution that is both easy and profitable to keep.

It's just this: Read the advertisements regularly.

Sounds childishly simple, doesn't it? But it makes sense when you stop to think about it.

You have a certain amount of money to spend for all the things your family needs. It's up to you to get the most out of it. And the advertising pages of this paper can help you.

Here merchants and manufacturers advertise their best values, their lowest prices. They know they can build business only by giving you satisfaction. You know you can depend upon the things they advertise. It works both ways.

Watch for "specials," for seasonal sales, for news of new foods and new conveniences. You'll learn the best time to buy winter coats or bathing suits. You'll learn prices, styles, brands. You'll shop without wasting time or steps. And you'll live a lot more comfortably.

DO YOU KNOW...

That the high quality of our Bread never varies. Tomorrow's and every day's loaf will have the same delicious flavor as today's.

O.S.U. Contest, Lutherans Defeat Hold Spotlight

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Examinations and mid-Winter vacations cut into Ohio collegiate basketball schedules today as Akron became the only unbeaten five in the state, Wooster monopolized the Ohio Conference race and Ohio university remained on top in the Buckeye chase.

Only six Ohio Conference games were on the slate for this week and there was to be a complete curtailment of activities in the Buckeye. Ohio State had two Big Ten encounters scheduled, one tonight in Columbus against Michigan and one Saturday night against Chicago.

Wooster, by defeating Kent State in a 37 to 33 tilt Saturday night chalked up its sixth Conference victory to move out in front in the Ohio pennant grind. Case with four wins and no defeats was in second place. Capital, losing to Marietta Saturday, was in third position with five wins and one loss.

Ashland, because of its beating last week by Kent, was in fourth place with four victories and one loss.

Weaver Stopped
The most amazing week-end surprise was Capital's 33 to 38 loss to Marietta. The Ohio River five held Capital's usually high scoring Paul Weaver to three tallies and over came a first half deficit to knock Capital from the unbeaten class and become, by virtue of four wins and one defeat, a title contender.

Capital and Ashland will settle one or the other's Conference title ambitions this Saturday when they meet in Ashland. Both quintets have undergone one difficult test and both have folded at crucial moments. The five that loses Saturday's tilt will probably be eliminated from pennant consideration.

Akron has won eight straight in keeping its slate clean and becoming the only five in the state not to have been handed at least one setback. Akron's Feb. 16 meeting with Toledo will be one of the outstanding games of the season in view of Toledo's thus far excellent record. The Rockets have won 11 and lost one.

Saturday Scores
Saturday's scores included: John Carroll 37, Baldwin-Wallace 24; Bluffton 49, Wilberforce 36; Hiram 35, Bowling Green 27; Marietta 38, Capital 33; Western Reserve 57, Case 30 (this was Case's first defeat); Cincinnati 51, Alumni 41; Marshall 47, Dayton 35; Wilmington 40, Denison 30; Wooster 37, Kent 33; Wittenberg 59, Muskingum 38; Ohio State 49, Army 38.

ESHELMAN FIVE WINS

A team of cagers from the Esheleman mill won a 29-25 contest from the Williamsport Merchants, Saturday night. In the Esheleman lineup were Russell and Wellington, forwards; Young, center; Liston and Brown, guards; Young was high point man with eight buckets. Williamsport used Anderson, Straley, Russell, Morrison, Radcliff, Corcoran, Cupp, Ebenhack and Betts.

RED AND BLACK HALTS STRONG CLARKSBURG '5'

34-31 Margin Goes To Tiger Varsity After Gruelling Game; Reserves Winners

Circleville high school cagers, forced to their fastest speed by a versatile and efficient Clarksburg quintet, was the victor Saturday night, 34-31, in a thrilling exhibition of the court game. The C. A. C. gym was the scene and the large crowd that witnessed the contest was kept on its toes from start to finish.

The Tigers were never headed, but the Clarksburg threat was ever-present. The difference in the score between the two teams never passed five points and most of the time the edge was only two counters. The count was tied at 18-all and at 30-all, the last score being in the final few minutes of play.

The ball game started fast with Circleville taking a 10-7 lead at the quarter. The edge was only two points at halftime, Circleville leading 20-18. The end of the third period found the margin the same, 28-26, and then came the hectic last period that saw fireworks and plenty. A bucket by tall Joe Ater tied up the count at 30-all just before Ater left the game after committing his fourth personal.

Whitey Davis, who was well-covered during the evening by Deke Templin, long-shooting Clarksburg guard, came through with a long flip to put the Red and Black ahead. A moment later P. O.S.U. Contest, Lutherans Defeat Hold Spotlight

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Examinations and mid-Winter vacations cut into Ohio collegiate basketball schedules today as Akron became the only unbeaten five in the state, Wooster monopolized the Ohio Conference race and Ohio university remained on top in the Buckeye chase.

Only six Ohio Conference games were on the slate for this week and there was to be a complete curtailment of activities in the Buckeye. Ohio State had two Big Ten encounters scheduled, one tonight in Columbus against Michigan and one Saturday night against Chicago.

Wooster, by defeating Kent State in a 37 to 33 tilt Saturday night chalked up its sixth Conference victory to move out in front in the Ohio pennant grind. Case with four wins and no defeats was in second place. Capital, losing to Marietta Saturday, was in third position with five wins and one loss.

Ashland, because of its beating last week by Kent, was in fourth place with four victories and one loss.

Weaver Stopped

The most amazing week-end surprise was Capital's 33 to 38 loss to Marietta. The Ohio River held Capital's usually high scoring Paul Weaver to three tallies and over came a first half deficit to knock Capital from the unbeaten class and become, by virtue of four wins and one defeat, a title contender.

Capital and Ashland will settle one or the other's Conference title ambitions this Saturday when they meet in Ashland. Both quints have undergone one difficult test and both have folded at crucial moments. The five that loses Saturday's tilt will probably be eliminated from pennant consideration.

Akron has won eight straight in keeping its slate clean and becoming the only five in the state not to have been handed at least one setback. Akron's Feb. 16 meeting with Toledo will be one of the outstanding games of the season in view of Toledo's thus far excellent record. The Rockets have won 11 and lost one.

Saturday Scores

Saturday's scores included: John Carroll 37, Baldwin-Wallace 24; Bluffton 49, Wilberforce 36; Hiram 35, Bowling Green 27; Marietta 38, Capital 33; Western Reserve 57, Case 30 (this was Case's first defeat); Cincinnati 51, Alumni 41; Marshall 47, Dayton 36; Wilmington 40, Denison 30; Wooster 37, Kent 33; Wittenberg 59, Muskingum 38; Ohio State 49, Army 38.

RED AND BLACK HALTS STRONG CLARKSBURG '5'

Circleville high school cagers, forced to their fastest speed by a versatile and efficient Clarksburg quintet, was the victor Saturday night, 34-31, in a thrilling exhibition of the court game. The C. A. C. gym was the scene and the large crowd that witnessed the contest was kept on its toes from start to finish.

The Tigers were never headed, but the Clarksburg threat was ever-present. The difference in the score between the two teams never passed five points and most of the time the edge was only two counters. The count was tied at 18-all and at 30-all, the last score being in the final few minutes of play.

The ball game started fast with Circleville taking a 10-7 lead at the quarter. The edge was only two points at halftime, Circleville leading 20-18. The end of the third period found the margin the same, 28-26, and then came the hectic last period that saw fireworks and plenty. A bucket by tall Joe Ater tied up the count at 30-all just before Ater left the game after committing his fourth personal. Whitey Davis, who was well-covered during the evening by Clifton f 10 0 1 0 2 Deke Templin, long - shooting Clarksburg guard, came through with a long flip to put the Red and Black ahead. A moment later Warren Bumgarner, who played one of his best games of the year, took the ball off the Clarksburg backboard, dribbled down the floor and dove heading for the basket. The ball swished through for one of the most sensational shots of the evening.

Clarksburg cut the lead by one point, to 34 - 31, just before the game ended.

Ater Has Three Early

The invaders put a splendid team on the floor, one that could do almost anything with the ball. Joe Ater, a brilliant player, was handicapped after committing three personals in the first period. Coach Bob Terhune did not use him from the first period until midway in the third session. Ater was ejected in the fourth quarter.

Play in the first half was featured by Paul Walters' brilliant under-the-net shooting. The tall Tiger center, who has scored 16, 12 and 15 points in his last four games, was deadly with a left-handed hook shot from under, ringing up 13 markers in the first half. He was well-covered in the last two periods getting but one goal. The first half featured, also, some hot long shooting by Hamman and D. Templin for the invaders.

Harold Smith, diminutive but efficient Tiger forward, played the best game of his varsity career, the little fellow proving to be the best ball hawk in the game. He added eight points to the Tiger total.

Circleville reserves finished on top, 24-10, in a game played in six divisions. Each coach changed his entire team after each period, six sessions being played without time out at the end of a "sixth". Tye Davis, junior guard, dumped in three buckets to lead the Tiger parade.

Circleville invades Hillsboro next Friday evening for one of the most important games on the Red and Black schedule. Other schools remaining to be played are Upper Arlington, Bexley, Kingston, London, Greenfield and Washington C. H.

JACKSON BOARD ACTS

Niles Declares Structure Not Equipped To Hold Court Jousts

The controversy over use of the Circleville Athletic Club gymnasium for the Pickaway county basketball tournament, which opens in mid-February, may come to a head Monday afternoon when superintendents of the various schools gather in the office of G. D. McDowell, county superintendent.

The problem, which involves a request of the Athletic Club for rental of $40 a night, $15 more than last year, is expected to be discussed from all angles.

Members of the county tournament committee, including Myron T. Johnson, Pickaway superintendent; Carl D. Bennett, Walnut superintendent, and Mr. McDowell, have declared that they will not pay the price asked by the club. C. A. C. officials are reluctant to accept a figure lower than that asked.

The Jackson township gymnasium, looked on by several school men as an excellent site for the tournament, became an impossibility when Charles M. Niles, a member of the board, declared that his board had taken definite action against permitting use of the building for the games. "We have no facilities for conducting a tournament," Mr. Niles said.

The tournament question was discussed at noon Monday when the Circleville Retail Merchants association gathered in Hanley's tearoom. There was a possibility that representatives of the business organization would confer with school superintendents later in the afternoon.

If the tournament is not held in Circleville indications are that it will be sectionalized, part of it being played at Ashville, part at Commercial Point and part at Derby. The greatest problem involved, if such action is taken, will be to keep teams from playing on their own courts.

LEHMANN LOSES RACE TO DEATH; HUSBAND DIES

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 23—Death emerged the victory today in the 1,500 mile race made by Lotte Lehmann, the singer, to reach the bedside of her husband, Otto Krause, an Austrian cavalry officer who had wooed and won her in the romantic tradition of the many operas she has sung.

Miss Lehmann had progressed as far as Toledo, O., on her dash from Spokane, Wash., when the news of her husband's death from tuberculosis was given her. Prevented by adverse weather conditions from using an airplane, she completed the trip by train.

Although both were full-blooded Aryans, Miss Lehmann and her husband renounced their Austrian citizenship when the Anschluss with Germany took place because of their dislike for Chancellor Hitler's policies. In the gay Austria that was, Krause became enamored of Miss Lehmann on hearing her sing the roles of his beloved Wagnerian opera. They fell in love as a result of his arduous courtship and were married in 1926, although a vice-president of a large Vienna insurance company, Krause deserted his business to accompany Miss Lehmann on all her tours and so closely did he guard her that he himself packed her bags and made her appointments. Four sons by a previous marriage also survive.

Claypool's Capital Comment

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS—Still coming in strong are bills and resolutions ranging from civil service to espionage. All bills and resolutions go to committees for consideration. Senator Murray, of Montana sponsors a bill to authorize $5,000,000 as an initial fund for Federal grants to States in a tuberculosis hospitalization program to be matched partly by State funds; Senators Guffy of Pennsylvania would like to have the punishment for espionage increased to a maximum of 10 years' imprisonment; So as to establish postal service on a non-political career basis, Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan wants to place first, second, and third class post offices in competitive classified service and have postmasters now serving to continue until the end of their terms.

U. S. AIRFLEET—Doubling of the United States airfleet has been asked by the President in order to insure security by giving us strength. He asked that the Army and Navy be given money to raise the present combined force of 4300 planes to 8500 planes. This number would be only the needed amount to protect the American mainland, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone. The United States stands at present fifth in the world's air powers. If this request goes through, our place would jump to that of second.

PILOT TRAINING—Ten million dollars a year has been asked by President Roosevelt to pay for training of twenty thousands civilian air pilots annually. Further training would be given superior students who enlisted in the Air Reserve. The war planes would be, in case of war, manned with student pilots used as a partly trained reserve.

FEDERAL HOUSING — The Federal Housing Administration in 1938, despite the lag in residential construction during the early part of the year, transacted a total business of nearly a billion and a quarter dollars, the largest annual volume in its history. Its mortgage insuring activities, which last Spring began to reflect the part residential construction would play in the current movement, showed a 71% increase in the value of small home mortgages selected for appraisal, and a 45% increase in the value of mortgages accepted for insurance. Property improvement loans insured under the 1938 amendments for the 11 months of February through December amounted to $171,719,000, during 1938. Disaster loans in 1938 totaled about $1,000,000.

DANISH ROYALTY—The Department of State has been informed that upon the receipt of information that Their Royal Highnesses the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Denmark expect to visit the United States the latter part of April 1939, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt extended an invitation to Their Royal Highnesses to be their guests at Hyde Park for several days during the course of their visit to this country. The invitation of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt has been accepted by Their Royal Highnesses.

1938 WAS MUCH WARMER—The year 1938, following recent weather trends was remarkably warm. In fact, for the country as a whole, 1938 was one of the warmest years of record, according to the Weather Bureau. Every first-order Weather Bureau station in the country reported above normal temperatures for the year, which probably is unprecedented in Bureau annals. The greatest abnormalities were in the interior of the country—in the western Ohio and central Mississippi valleys and the central and lower Missouri valley, where the temperature in a wide area averaged up to 3 degrees above normal. The highest temperature for the year, however, was 125 degrees recorded at Crow Creek, Calif., both in July and August. The tendency to higher temperatures, apparent during the turn of the century, has been specially marked in the last decade. Only one year—1929—of the last twenty has been appreciably cooler than normal for the country as a whole, with 1919 and 1924 slightly below normal warmth; All others from 1919 to

372 RABBITS RECEIVED

Three hundred and seventy-two bunnies were received Monday from the conservation department by Pickaway county sportsmen. The rabbits were released on open areas by sportsmen and Clarence Francis, Pickaway county conservation officer.

DRIVERS BEWARE

BOISE, Idaho.—Evening hours between 7 and 8 p. m. claimed more accidents on Idaho roads than any other time during the day or night, a survey by E. T. Spencer, director of the state safety bureau, has disclosed.

They Deny Espionage Charges

CHARGED with espionage, two men and a woman prepare to go on trial in Los Angeles federal court Feb. 21. The three are Mikhail Nicholas Gorin, Pacific coast head of Intourist, Inc., official Soviet travel agency; his wife, Natasha, and Hafis Salich, former agent of the United States naval intelligence. All three entered pleas of not guilty at their arraignment after defense motions to quash the indictments on various statutory grounds were denied. Gorin and his wife are shown in court as they pleaded not guilty.

143 Burials Made During '38 in Forest Cemetery

One hundred and forty three burials were made in Forest cemetery in 1938, 10 more than in 1937. There were five in St. Joseph's cemetery last year and seven the previous year.

E. O. Crites, secretary of the Forest cemetery association and cemetery superintendent, announced the average number of burials for the last 19 years is 147 per year.

At the close of the year the total number of burials in the cemetery since it was opened on July 30, 1857 amounted to 9,264. The year 1918 still holds the record. In that year 238 were made with 51 recorded in October. The 51 recorded in October included 31 deaths from influenza.

Mr. Crites' annual report will be presented at the annual meeting of stockholders of the association

1939 have had higher than normal temperatures.

NEW STAMP — Announcement was made on the issuance of a special postage stamp in the 3-cent denomination in commemoration of the Golden Gate International Exposition, which opens in San Francisco, California, on February 18, 1939. The stamp will be the first placed on sale at the San Francisco office on the above date. The new stamp will be 84/100 by 1-44/100 inches in dimensions, arranged vertically. It will be printed in purple by the rotary process and issued in sheets of 50. The design will be a reproduction of the "Tower of the Sun", one of the outstanding architectural features of the Exposition on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay. At the base of the central design will be a large numeral "3" in white modernized Gothic. Superimposed on the numeral will be the word "cents" in dark face Roman, with the dates "19" and "39" in white within small squares at the left and right, respectively. At the top and sides of the stamp in dark Gothic will be the wording "United States Postage" at the left, "Golden Gate" at the top, and "International Exposition" at the right. Collectors mail addressed covers to Postmaster at San Francisco, California with cash or postal money order remittance to cover only the cost of the stamps.

INCREASE IN COSTS OF PUBLIC RELIEF—An estimated 6,700,000 different households, probably comprising about 21,300,000 persons, received public aid in November from Federal State, and local funds amounting to $275,167,000.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The 1939 season has started out on the right foot with something new and exciting in screen musical comedy! It's the new Jack Benny picture, "Artists and Models Abroad," which had its local premiere last night at the Cliftona theatre.

"Buck" Benny—equally at home on stage, radio and screen—is at his wisecracking best in a hilarious story about the escapades of screwball American vaudeville troupers stranded at the Paris Exposition. He is given ample assistance by a top-notch cast, which includes Joan Bennett, co-starred as Benny's new leading lady, the Yacht Club Boys, as some of the troupers, Mary Boland, as a social-climbing American dowager, Charley Grapewin and Fritz Feld. Against the glamorous background of the Paris Exposition, "Artists and Models Abroad" follows the adventures of Benny and his flat-broke gang of American hoofers. The gang, incidentally includes a score of the loveliest girls seen on the screen in many a season and bears out Producer Arthur Hornblow's reputation as "Hollywood's Ziegfeld."

The hilarious comedy is interspersed with a number of new hit songs, all of which do credit to the lavish production.

AT THE CIRCLE

Of all the heroes of fact and fiction, there's none so beloved or dashing as Robin Hood,—the outlaw of Sherwood Forest. Celebrated in song and story, in opera and in the silent movies, Robin now appears in brand new guise in Warner Bros.' Technicolor production "The Adventures of Robin Hood," which opened yesterday at the Circle Theatre.

Errol Flynn, a veritable reincarnation of the legendary Robin, plays the title role. Handsome, young and adventurous, Flynn makes the perfect Robin Hood. Sharing honors with him is the demurely lovely Olivia de Havilland (who was his heroine in "Captain Blood") and "The Charge of the Light Brigade") portraying his lady-love, Maid Marian. And they prove that medieval romance was even more thrilling than the modern variety.

That must be wrong about the leopard not changing his spots. Have you seen the photographs from southern beach resorts showing the staid business man from the north wearing trousers made out of old Christmas neckties?

JACKSON BOARD ACTS

Niles Declares Structure Not Equipped To Hold Court Jousts

The controversy over use of the Circleville Athletic Club gymnasium for the Pickaway county basketball tournament, which opens in mid-February, may come to a head Monday afternoon when superintendents of the various schools gather in the office of G. D. McDowell, county superintendent.

The problem, which involves a request of the Athletic Club for rental of $40 a night, $15 more than last year, is expected to be discussed from all angles.

Members of the county tournament committee, including Myron T. Johnson, Pickaway superintendent; Carl D. Bennett, Walnut superintendent, and Mr. McDowell, have declared that they will not pay the price asked by the club. C. A. C. officials are reluctant to accept a figure lower than that asked.

The Jackson township gymnasium, looked on by several school men as an excellent site for the tournament, became an impossibility when Charles M. Niles, a member of the board, declared that his board had taken definite action against permitting use of the building for the games. "We have no facilities for conducting a tournament," Mr. Niles said.

The tournament question was discussed at noon Monday when the Circleville Retail Merchants association gathered in Hanley's tearoom. There was a possibility that representatives of the business organization would confer with school superintendents later in the afternoon.

If the tournament is not held in Circleville indications are that it will be centralized, part of it being played at Ashville, part at Commercial Point and part at Derby. The greatest problem involved, if such action is taken, will be to keep teams from playing on their own courts.

Program Announced For Annual Ohio Farm Week

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23.—Claude Wickard, Indiana farmer who is director of the north-central division of the A.A.A., has the opening spot on the program of the annual Farmers' week at Ohio State university.

Wickard, who brought to the A.A.A., both the farmer's viewpoint and a knowledge of farm conditions, will discuss new phases of the national farm program on Monday afternoon, Jan. 30.

"Here comes Charlie," a three-act play will be presented the same evening by a cast made up of former members of boys' and girls' clubs who are not at the University.

Tuesday, the second day, will be devoted to Ohio's 1939 class of master farmers. They are chosen for success in managing their particular farm enterprise and for leadership in community and state campaigns to improve farm conditions.

E. R. Bowen, of New York, executive secretary of the Cooperative League of the United States, will be headliner of the speakers. His topic is scheduled to be "How Cooperatives Build Economic Democracy."

Farm "jitterbugs" will "strut their stuff" in the evening's entertainment. The latest quadrille and square dance steps may be performed by the visitors.

Governor John Bricker is scheduled to address Ohio Farmers for the first time since his inauguration Wednesday morning. The present farm plans of the new administration will be outlined by State Agriculture Director John T. Brown.

Noted for his humorous interpretation of life, Strickland Gilliland will speak that night.

Thursday will be Grange Day, with Grange groups from Butler, Knox, Shelby and Summit counties furnishing special musical entertainment. H. E. Barnard, director of research of the Farm Chemurgic Council, Columbus, will explain new uses for farm products.

Farmers' Week will wind up with Friday designated as Rural Church Day. The place of the rural church in rebuilding agriculture will be discussed by Mark A. Dauber, of the New York Home Missions Council.

LEHMANN LOSES RACE TO DEATH; HUSBAND DIES

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Death emerged the victory today in the 1,500 mile race made by Lotte Lehmann, the singer, to reach the bedside of her husband, Otto Krause, an Austrian cavalry officer who had wooed and won her in the romantic tradition of the many operas she has sung. Miss Lehmann had progressed as far as Toledo, O., on her dash from Spokane, Wash., when the news of her husband's death from tuberculosis was given her. Prevented by adverse weather conditions from using an airplane, she completed the trip by train.

Although both were full-blooded Aryans, Miss Lehmann and her husband renounced their Austrian citizenship when the Anschluss with Germany took place because of their dislike for Chancellor Hitler's policies. In the gay Austria that was, Krause became enamored of Miss Lehmann on hearing her sing the roles of his beloved Wagnerian opera. They fell in love as a result of his arduous courtship and were married in 1926, although a vice-president of a large Vienna insurance company, Krause deserted his business to accompany Miss Lehmann on all her tours and so closely did he guard her that he himself packed her bags and made her appointments. Four sons by a previous marriage also survive.

Claypool's Capital Comment

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS—

Still coming in strong are bills and resolutions ranging from civil service to espionage. All bills and resolutions go to committees for consideration. Senator Murray, of Montana sponsors a bill to authorize $5,000,000 as an initial fund for Federal grants to States in a tuberculosis hospitalization program to be matched partly by State funds; Senators Guffey of Pennsylvania would like to have the punishment for espionage increased to a maximum of 10 years' imprisonment; So as to establish postal service on a non-political career basis, Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan wants to place first, second, and third class post offices in competitive classified service and have postmasters now serving to continue until the end of their terms.

U. S. AIRFLEET—Doubling of the United States air fleet has been asked by the President in order to insure security by giving us strength. He asked that the Army and Navy be given money to raise the present combined force of 4300 planes to 8500 planes. This number would be only the needed amount to protect the American mainland, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone. The United States stands at present fifth in the world's air powers. If this request goes through, our place would jump to that of second.

PILOT TRAINING—Ten million dollars a year has been asked by President Roosevelt to pay for training of twenty thousands civilian air pilots annually. Further training would be given superior students who enlisted in the Air Reserve. The war planes would be in case of war, manned with student pilots used as a partly trained reserve.

FEDERAL HOUSING — The Federal Housing Administration in 1938, despite the lag in residential construction during the early part of the year, transacted a total business of nearly a billion and a quarter dollars, the largest annual volume in its history. Its mortgage insuring activities, which last Spring began to reflect the part residential construction would play in the current movement, showed a 71% increase in the value of small home mortgages selected for appraisal, and a 45% increase in the value of mortgages accepted for insurance. Property improvement loans insured under the 1938 amendments for the 11 months of February through December amounted to $171,719,000 during 1938. Disaster loans in 1938 totaled about $1,000,000.

DANISH ROYALTY—

The Department of State has been informed that upon the receipt of information that Their Royal Highnesses the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Denmark expect to visit the United States the latter part of April 1939, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt extended an invitation to Their Royal Highnesses to be their guests at Hyde Park for several days during the course of their visit to this country. The invitation of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt has been accepted by Their Royal Highnesses.

1938 WAS MUCH WARMER—The year 1938, following recent weather trends was remarkably warm. In fact, for the country as a whole, 1938 was one of the warmest years of record, according to the Weather Bureau. Every first-order Weather Bureau station in the country reported above normal temperatures for the year, which probably is unprecedented in Bureau annals. The greatest abnormalities were in the interior of the country—in the western Ohio and central Mississippi valleys and the central and lower Missouri valley, where the temperature in a wide area averaged up to 3 degrees above normal. The highest temperature for the year, however, was 125 degrees recorded at Crow Creek, Calif., both in July and August. The tendency to higher temperatures, apparent during the turn of the century, has been specially marked in the last decade. Only one year—1929—of the last twenty has been appreciably cooler than normal for the country as a whole, with 1919 and 1924 slightly below normal warmth; All others from 1919 to

CHARGED with espionage, two men and a woman prepare to go on trial in Los Angeles federal court Feb. 21. The three are Mikhail Nicholas Gorin, Pacific coast head of Intourist, Inc., official Soviet travel agency; his wife, Natasha, and Hafis Salich, former agent of the United States naval intelligence. All three entered pleas of not guilty at their arraignment after defense motions to quash the indictments on various statutory grounds were denied. Gorin and his wife are shown in court as they pleaded not guilty.

143 Burials Made During '38 in Forest Cemetery

One hundred and forty three burials were made in Forest cemetery in 1938, 10 more than in 1937. There were five in St. Joseph's cemetery last year and seven the previous year.

E. O. Crites, secretary of the Forest cemetery association and cemetery superintendent, announced the average number of burials for the last 19 years is 147 per year.

At the close of the year the total number of burials in the cemetery since it was opened on July 30, 1857 amounted to 9,264. The year 1913 still holds the record. In that year 238 were made with 51 recorded in October. The 51 recorded in October included 31 deaths from influenza.

Mr. Crites' annual report will be presented at the annual meeting of stockholders of the association

1939 have had higher than normal temperatures.

NEW STAMP — Announcement was made on the issuance of a special postage stamp in the 3-cent denomination in commemoration of the Golden Gate International Exposition, which opens in San Francisco, California, on February 15, 1939. The stamp will be the first placed on sale at the San Francisco office on the above date. The new stamp will be 84/100 by 1-44/100 inches in dimensions, arranged vertically. It will be printed in purple by the rotary process and issued in sheets of 50. The design will be a reproduction of the "Tower of the Sun", one of the outstanding architectural features of the Exposition on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay. At the base of the central design will be a large numeral "3" in white modernized Gothic. Superimposed on the numeral will be the word "cents" in dark face Roman, with the dates "19" and "39" in white within small squares at the left and right, respectively. At the top and sides of the stamp in dark Gothic will be the wording "United States Postage" at the left, "Golden Gate" at the top, and "International Exposition" at the right. Collectors mail addressed covers to Postmaster at San Francisco, California with cash or postal money order remittance to cover only the cost of the stamps.

INCREASE IN COSTS OF PUBLIC RELIEF—An estimated 6,700,000 different households, probably comprising about 21,300,000 persons, received public aid in November from Federal State, and local funds amounting to $275,167,000.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The 1939 season has started out on the right foot with something new and exciting in screen musical comedy! It's the new Jack Benny picture, "Artists and Models Abroad," which had its local premiere last night at the Cliftona theatre.

"Buck" Benny—equally at home on stage, radio and screen—is at his wisecracking best in a hilarious story about the escapades of screwball American vaudeville troupers stranded at the Paris Exposition. He is given ample assistance by a top-notch cast, which includes Joan Bennett, co-starred as Benny's new leading lady, the Yacht Club Boys, as some of the troupers, Mary Boland, as a social-climbing American dowager, Charley Grapewin and Fritz Feld. Against the glamorous background of the Paris Exposition, "Artists and Models Abroad" follows the adventures of Benny and his flat-broke gang of American hoofers. The gang, incidentally includes a score of the loveliest girls seen on the screen in many a season and bears out Producer Arthur Hornblow's reputation as "Hollywood's Ziegfeld."

The hilarious comedy is interspersed with a number of new hit songs, all of which do credit to the lavish production.

AT THE CIRCLE

Of all the heroes of fact and fiction, there's none so beloved or dashing as Robin Hood,—the outlaw of Sherwood Forest. Celebrated in song and story, in opera and in the silent movies, Robin now appears in brand new guise in Warner Bros.' Technicolor production "The Adventures of Robin Hood," which opened yesterday at the Circle Theatre.

Errol Flynn, a veritable reincarnation of the legendary Robin, plays the title role. Handsome, young and adventurous, Flynn makes the perfect Robin Hood. Sharing honors with him is the demurely lovely Olivia de Havilland (who was his heroine in "Captain Blood") and "The Charge of the Light Brigade" portraying his lady-love, Maid Marian. And they prove that medieval romance was even more thrilling than the modern variety.

That must be wrong about the leopard not changing his spots. Have you seen the photographs from southern beach resorts showing the staid business man from the north wearing trousers made out of old Christmas neckties?
